As an Alaskan, and a high school teacher concerned about educating the next generation of Alaskans, I feel that any budget surplus should not be given to the residents here.

We have a chance to set a fund to send all Alaskan youth to UAA or UAF to earn their Bachelor Degree for free.

Let's lead the country in clearly established prioritites. I feel so strongly about this, I'll leave my teaching job and help establish this fund.

Mixed bag today out of this industry event in anchorage. Bad news: BP is going to stop work by two drill rigs that perform well workovers. I haven't heard the stated reason yet, but it likely has something to do with fallout from the standard deduction since well workovers are operating expenses. If that is the case, the production isn't lost but only deferred. After the standard deduction sunsets in 2009, they can go in and perform those workovers all the same.

The good news: ENI has announced the sanction of the Nikiatchug field. DNR granted royalty relief at low prices last month, and they are now going to move forward on development. They will spend nearly 1.5 billion dollars to develop 180 million barrels of oil in the shallow offshore. First production will occur in late 2009.

Governor,

After reviewing the options on where to build the new Crime Lab, Anchorage was chosen over Kenai and The Mat-Su Valley for the following reasons:

- APD is by far the largest user at 72% and even if such usage rate continued, a move to Kenai would drive up their expense in shipping evidence and slow their responsiveness to the citizens they serve.
- The staff currently working at the Crime Lab would have to uproot themselves and their families and that may cause some to re-think employment with DPS; a consideration as the crime Lab is currently understaffed.
- Many Troopers transport their prisoners into Anchorage and hand carry evidence to the Crime Lab now, to move the Lab out of Anchorage would further tie up that traveling Trooper to other communities, like Palmer or Kenai, before he or she can return to their assigned post.
- Finally, the cost for the land in Anchorage is the same price as it would be in Kenai, no cost. (As per conversation with MOA Heritage Land Bank Manager with Deputy Commissioner Glass.)

Any questions, please contact me anytime.

Good Evening Governor Palin!! I've been wanting to email you for over a month, but as a mom with 3 busy sons, a husband, volunteering at school, being a Mary Kay Consultant, church and every other requirement a mom has I haven't had the moment, until tonight.

I do not know if you know this, but you were featured in our "local" newspaper, "The Portland Press Herald" or "The Maine Sunday Telegram", both papers are the same. You were on page 2 of the first section. The article mentioned how you are cleaning house in your state and taking "no prisoners", working with BOTH parties (can you believe it!!), and even though you are a Republican you took the Oil People to "the mat" and won!!!!

I wanted to cut the article out, but it ended up in our wood stove to start the daily fire. Yes we have wood stoves in Maine. Actually you would not believe the number of people outside New England (Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut) that think Maine is part of Canada. Sometimes I think the Weather Channel considers Maine part of Canada. The Weather Channel needs a geography lesson, they think the Northeast ends in Boston. Oh, well enough about Maine.

The article also mentioned that you might be a good running mate for the Republican Nominee. Well I am here to tell you don't take the job. Stay Governor of Alaska. Do a great job helping the people in your state, I think they need you. I am not trying to be rude, but from what the article mentioned it sounds like you still have alot of work to do and to leave with the work not finished will only hurt Alaska. I am a registered Republican and I'm not to happy with what is out there and I am afraid it you took the Vice-President spot that you could loose. Then Alaska would loose even more. I wish Governor Baldici had your nerve!!!

I realize you may never receive this email because of all the email you get from your own state and it should be that way. But I wanted to email you and say "Good Job", now if you could teach the rest of the Governors to stand up and be counted then I think things would be better.

Good luck with the rest of your term and I hope all goes well. Someday my husband Jeff and I hope to go to Alaska. Take care and God's Blessings, Kay Ouellette, Wells, Maine

PS Yes, Wells is right on the Atlantic Ocean!!

Tom--here is the Homer News story on our public meeting last week.

In addition to Homer, we have held meetings in Anchorage, Fairbanks, and Juneau (November 13-15). Also, we are in the process of scheduling meetings in Dillingham, Bethel, and Nome. Dates are not set yet, but we hope to hold these in the next two months. We also did this presentation to the Lake and Peninsula Planning and Zoning Commission in December, and we may go back there to do a full public meeting sometime this Spring. Presentations are also scheduled for the Alaska Forum on the Environment to be held in Anchorage the week of February 11, and at the Alaska Wilderness Recreation and Tourism Association Conference on February 20. We stand ready to bring our presentation to any community or forum that requests us.

Homer News - January 23, 2008

Mine permit team can, does say 'no'

BY MICHAEL ARMSTRONG

STAFF WRITER

DNR, OHMP, ADEC, COE, NEPA, EIS, ROD and TEK. ARD, ML, NPDES, MZ, Air Q and Water Q.

When members of the LMPT that's the Large Mine Permitting Team spoke last Tuesday on how large mines get permitted in Alaska, acronyms fell like snow sliding off a steep metal roof during a mid-winter Chinook.

Or, as Victor Ross of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers said about halfway through the three-hour talk, "If you haven't had enough acronyms, if you haven't had enough discussion of words and letters you're going to get more," he said.

About 25 people attended the Jan. 22 presentation, many of them wearing "No Pebble" buttons. "The Process for Permitting Mine Projects in Alaska" is a talk given by state and federal officials on how large mines like the Red Dog Mine, the Pogo Mine and the proposed Pebble Project proceed from exploration to production and beyond. The Large Mine Project Team spoke about the permitting process last year in Fairbanks and Anchorage and will give its presentation this year in Dillingham, King Salmon and Bethel.

"Alaskans need to understand the complexities of the mine permitting process," Alaska Department of Natural Resources Commissioner Tom Irwin said in announcing the workshops. "It is not simply a matter of DNR saying yes or no, but rather the coordinated involvement of many state and federal agencies to process dozens of separate permit applications."

That's a point the presenters kept emphasizing.

"There is no one DNR permit," said Ed Fogels, division director of DNR Office of Project Management and Permitting in Anchorage. "There are many, many permits."

To dramatize the scale of the permits, Fogels showed a slide of the permit application package for the Pogo Gold Mine near Delta Junction a small library of about 20 4-inch-thick books.

The Large Mine Permitting Team made up of representatives from DNR, the Alaska Department of Fish and Game, the Alaska Department of Environmental Conservation, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers begins working with mining companies before a mine is developed.

Although on its Web site Pebble officials say the project is in the "pre-permitting" stage of development, the Large Mine Permitting Team is already working with Northern Dynasty and Anglo American now known as the Pebble Partnership in the exploration and environmental assessment stage of the project, what it calls the pre-scoping and schedule phase.

"The team is involved," Fogels said. "We've been for years at Pebble, and it hasn't even approved permitting."

The Pebble Partnership has been getting state permits for exploration work, said Sean Magee, director of public affairs with the Pebble Partnership, and the Large Mine Permitting Team has visited the project site to check on permit compliance.

"We do have a relationship with them," Magee said. "Certainly we share with the Large Mine Permitting Team and its members our environmental study plans every year, so they're aware of the work we do."

What Pebble hasn't done yet is start the long, involved process of getting the more than 60 local, state and federal permits needed to dig minerals out of the ground and send them to market. That can mean everything from road permits to wastewater disposal permits.

"Our job is to make sure all these permits are marching along in coordinated fashion," Fogels said.

"The focus is to synchronize it (the process)," he added. "It's a more efficient way to do it. It's easier on the applicant, it's easier on the agencies, it's easier on the public."

One criticism of the permitting process is that mining companies are never told "no." That's not true, Fogels said. The Large Mine Permitting Team denies permits all the time but it also gives companies a chance to correct problems with permits. Sometimes, a company can't produce a mining plan that satisfies agencies, as with the A-J Mine in Juneau, where miners wanted to dispose of tailings by dumping them underwater and offshore.

"We worked with them quite a while until the no's killed the project," Fogels said.

The permitting process also goes beyond the development phase of the project into mining reclamation. The Large Mine Permitting Team makes sure reclamation and closing the mine is done properly. Large mines have to put up some sort of financial assurance that money has been set aside for reclamation and long-term monitoring, said Tom Crisford, DNR mining coordinator. A mine like Red Dog, for example, has put up $155 million in financial assurance.

"When you evaluate a proposal for a mine, you evaluate it for its closure," Fogels noted.

At a question-and-answer period at the end, a lot of questions turned to Pebble. On the status of the Pebble Partnership's permit application, Fogels said he keeps hearing that applications will be coming within one to two years.

"We've heard that for five years," he said. "We keep expecting them."

Magee said the Pebble Partnership would apply for permits by 2009 at the earliest.

Officials also were asked if they had enough staff or funding to monitor the permit process and mines once permitted. Fogels noted that the state of Alaska bills mining companies for its permitting work. That's not the case with the federal government. Funding for Corps of Engineers or EPA work comes out of its national budget.

"Are we adequately funded? No," Ross of the Corps of Engineers said. "I would love to have more money to go out into the field."

One limitation of the Large Mine Permitting Team is that while it gets its authority from Alaska statutes, the actual process isn't encoded in a single regulation.

"It's not prescribed anywhere," Fogels said.

The Large Mine Permitting Team has a Web site detailing the process, including a paper and the slides from the presentation, available at www.dnr.state.ak.us/mining/largemine. Links to mining projects like Pebble show the status of those mine's permit applications.

I hear ya- those last two points are my concerns. The "Tom" and "Mark" names are mixed up, I believe, bc tibbles explained (while he stood by Annette's side during the explanation) one was the brother of the DEC guy, but both were friends of Bitney's. He also added that Maher didn't like tibbles and "feared for his job" when he became COS, tho Maher was actually promoted to acting commissioner before Hartig was hired.

It's too weird. And I couldn't talk to Annette about all I wanted to bc she didn't seem sympathetic to the bigger pic here re: trust, she said I'll always have critics, in any group... Duh. And tibbles was standing right there.

a few things you relayed tonight don't quite add up, and bruce brought up a good point when I relayed it to him as well.

1. did they tell you it was someone named "tom" maher? there is no "tom maher" in the state system when i pull the directory. only mike maher, the admin services director of dec. seems vague.

2. also weird that they told you not to follow up. is that because maher was told by someone officially to get something out to bitney or adn? a stretch but maybe. or did maher transmit it at all?

3. why caution you not to follow up, simple for hartig to ask maher "did you send something to bitney or the adn?"

i'll try to stop obsessing over this and let it rest.

Subject: Thank you Gasline Team!!

All,

I've been feeling the pressure lately and I've been feeling a tad sorry for myself. Mostly I think about the fact that I'm 56 years old, I'm a year past full retirement, I wake up almost nightly between 3 and 4 a.m. worrying about AGIA and all the challenges, minefields and workloads, and I've been in this pressure cooker for more years than I care to remember. As you can see, a veritable pity party!

And then, ever so slowly, I begin to think about Joe and Tom who live away from their families most of every month, and that Joe must deal with the Legislature and all their complexities every day all day, and who we rely upon to provide us our political insight and guidance, and Antony who must manage the AGIA technical team and the CP technical team and the TAPS tariff issues, and the ongoing DOG commercial demands and the fact that we all want him involved in everything we do, and Pat and Tom needing to make incredibly difficult AGIA decisions and respond to all our meeting demands, as well as ensuring their agencies don't fall apart while they focus on gasline, and Pat having many children, and Tom trying to manage me, and Pat trying to manage Marcia, and Nan overseeing the PTU litigation, keep the rest of us attending gasline meetings and focused on the correct issues in the appropriate fashion, and managing all the Oil & Gas units for the state of Alaska, including cleaning up decades of mistakes and attempting to answer unanswerable legal questions, and trying to manage both me and Marcia, and Dan and Brian who attend all our meetings, have learned all about the gasline's technical complexities, travel to Juneau on our behalf, speak out in defense of the AGIA process, and then return to AHFC to full-time jobs running the state's largest mortgage lending institution, and Chris who spends untold after hours, including in the middle of the night and on weekends, developing our systems, feeding the systems and supporting every single one of us in so many large and small ways, and then returning to AIDEA to a full time job running that development corporations procurement program, and Kurtis who we all expect, at a moments notice, to speak out in defense of AGIA in an articulate, clever and knowledgeable fashion, and to oversee a national effort to "sell" our Alaska Gasline vision, to be our in-house expert on all things relating to gas marketing, and to ensure the DOG doesn't stumble in its daily effort to generate about 87% of the state's general funds, and Bruce who we expect to work 24/7's to write first drafts of much of our outreach documents, and to coordinate and oversee our outreach efforts, and to challenge our premises and "sharpen our steel against steel", and Marie who we expect to ensure that our Findings address EVERYTHING we've been discussing over the past year, but in a perfectly organized and crystalized fashion, and to ensure we are well organized when we need to reach-out and touch every single legislator, and Bonnie who must investigate every legal nuance to ensure we are heading in the right direction, and then force an incredibly unruly and opinionated lot into submission, or if she can't, at least direct us onto a defensible path, and to oversee the many legal contractors, and to try and manage Don and Ken, who are almost as unmanageable as me and Marcia, and Don who continues to produce and participate loooong into the. East Coast nights in spite of being told that he should slow down a tad, at least for a short period of time, and Ken who has given up sleep as being over-rated, in favor of working around the clock producing documents that are "urgent" and like Don, continues to think we are fun clients, having obviously lost their minds, and Kevin who we expect to throw at Juneau to address anything commercial, and to do so in a fashion that protects DOG from criticism, and to graciously allow all of us to mainline his staff for the overarching interests of the state, but to also be responsible for ensuring nothing important drops through the cracks at DOG, and Allison who has jumped into the fray late enough in the game to know better, but still did so willingly and enthusiastically, helping us to focus on many ROW and public outreach insights, and Ian Laing who also should have known better than to look willing to join our merry-band, but in doing so proves once again the adage that "no good deed goes unpunished" as Ian will now be force-marched to Juneau to assist Joe, and us all, in reminding our Legislative leaders why AGIA's provisions are so critical to Alaskans future, thereby giving up his homelife as well, and Ken Marsh, who like Chris, goes about the task of quietly supporting our efforts on a daily basis. And, although not a daily part of our Gasline Team, Governor Palin, who sends emails of inquiry and support at all hours of the days and nights and stands firm on the interests of the state and of Alaskans, in spite of tremendous pressure. And the untold and unnamed Alaskans who are cheering for us! And, finally, the many team members who have participated over the past year but are not currently at the table and the departmental staff who cover our backs on normal agency issues so that we can focus our energies on the gasline. AND THEN IT OCCURS TO ME! I could not be prouder to be part of anything than I am to be part of this incredible team! You are all so remarkable, dedicated, intelligent, hard-working, that participating with you in this incredible adventure will be one of the highlights of my life. As Kurtis, in his clever and articulate way has said, "what emerges from the team is steel sharpened against steel". And it is and it is our strength, and although often frustrating and difficult, I believe it is also our pleasure. What keeps me hanging-in when the going gets tough is all of you. And I want to thank you for that and for being there for Alaska!

Marty

Subject: Meeting with Mayor Hornaday / Homer

Governor:

There is a meeting scheduled for 2:00 pm with Mayor Hornaday. His main transportation issue is probably the one-time reduction in ferry service that starts in December, 2008, when the Tustumena goes into drydock for extensive repairs. AMHS has scheduled the Kennecott to provide backup service but there will be a reduction in the amount of service. The Kennecott is the only other Ocean Certified vessel that can replace the Tustumena but it costs twice as much to operate. ($420,000 a week) and the Homer run only generates about $50,000 a week in revenue. AMHS decided that given the costs, etc., the proposed level of backup service provided by the Kennecott was reasonable. Mayor Hornaday probably disagrees.

Other local officials like the City Manager of Kodiak, Linda Freed, have said they are happy with any amount of backup service when the Tustumena goes down because prior to 1998 when the Kennecott was built, they used to get no backup service.

Governor:

Southeast Region Director Menzies returned from a trip to Ketchikan where he was discussing projects with the Assembly and City Council at a joint meeting. He wanted me to let you know that several Assembly members and City Council members approached him after the meeting and asked him to pass on their apology to you for the way Mayor Williams is behaving, and that they do not approve of it. (The strong pro-bridge group there truly does not represent the whole community, but they are very vocal)

Randy

P.S.

As to Mayor Homaday, he did later acknowledge that at the AML meeting, Mayor Williams was chairing the AML committee and just as Rep. Johansen did the day before, refused to allow technical staff to provide details.

Jim Rearden embodies all that is great about Alaska, and for me, that means he embodies what is best about America. A true original, he has not only told some of the best stories about our state and its people, he has played an important role in making Alaska what it is.

Alaska's first inhabitants called this place "The Great Land", and today more than ever this state provides a stunning expression of the grandeur that the natural world has to offer. The state was founded, almost fifty years ago, by people who, like Jim, loved the mountains, the rivers, the flora and the fauna of this remarkable place with a deep devotion and had a commitment to responsible stewardship of our fish and wildlife.

This sense of stewardship has always guided Alaska's fish and game management. And as an educator of wildlife biologists in the state, and a long-time member of the Board of Fish and Game and the Board of Game, Jim Rearden has helped embed this ethic in our people and our process.

The wise people who wrote Alaska's Constitution insisted that our fish and wildlife be maintained on the sustained yield principle. This requirement, unique among constitutions everywhere, as implemented by generations of dedicated public servants like Jim, has been instrumental in the growth of our world-renowned fisheries and the hunting and wildlife viewing opportunities that make Alaska the place where dreams come true.

Throughout his long and impressive career, Jim has had an appreciation for those who came before him. He told me that he recently re-read the transcripts of some conversations he had more than fifty years ago with his friend, a significant figure in the early history of hunting and guiding in Alaska and the subject of this book, Slim Moore. Immediately appreciating the historical value of the stories Slim had told him all those years ago, and knowing well the joy of telling a good yarn, Jim decided to gather them for this book.

I was deeply honored when he asked me to write a brief foreword, following as I do in this and in so many things the footsteps of the late Governor Jay Hammond, whose office I am humbled to occupy.

Jay valued the role that our hunting heritage has played in the Alaskan mindset, and he took seriously his responsibility to respect the ethics of hunting and guiding. The great guides and hunters of Alaska - the best place to hunt on earth - show appropriate respect to their prey, and to all animals as well as to the natural environment that nurtures them. In this book, Jim Rearden tells the story of a man who understood this implicitly and who is a fine example of the hardworking, ethical spirit of stewardship that have given us the Alaska we know - where men, women and children hunt, fish and enjoy the most beautiful, wild, Great Land anywhere. All of us who are blessed to live here are in their debt.

I began markup up Sharon's presser release to capture this very delicate balance Marty articulated, and Pat and I just discussed. But I will cease and desist until Tom, Pat and Marty can discuss and provide explicit guidance on the message (and vehicle for it). In the meantime, because I have a hard time sitting on my hands, I will send Tom, Pat and Marty a draft to review after they touch down in Anch, and over the weekend.

Governor,

Tom, Pat, and I have just landed in Seattle enroute from DC to AK. We are concerned that a response message be consistent with other discussions. And, while we know that we are always willing to talk with the companies, CP is saying we will not talk, meaning we won't "negotiate". Furthermore CP is trying to confuse the public, and we don't want to exacerbate any confusion. Our preference is to think about how best to respond and get something out Monday. However, if you feel something must go out immediately, then we propose we talk sometime later this afternoon after we land and put it together at that time.

Thanks, Marty

Governor Stands by AGIA Process

January 26, 2008, Juneau, Alaska - Governor Sarah Palin today responded to claims made by ConocoPhillips regarding the State's rejection of the company's natural gas pipeline proposal, which was submitted outside the AGIA process.

"AGIA sets forth a vehicle that delivers North Slope gas to market with certification and construction benchmarks, expansion provisions, tariff terms, and other protections the state, and the nation, need. It is unfortunate that ConocoPhillips elected not to participate in this sensible competitive process as did other fine companies."

The Governor also clarified that the state has never refused to work with ConocoPhillips on a mutually beneficial plan to get the producers' gas into a pipeline to market.

Governor Palin on Wednesday spoke with ConocoPhillips president Jim Bowles about this issue.

"While the ConocoPhillips' alternative obviously falls outside of AGIA's terms, we have long sought a way for ConocoPhillips to work with the state and the AGIA licensee toward a mutual goal of getting ConocoPhillips' gas into a line to market. We have had several discussions along these lines, and will continue to do so. Statements to the contrary are simply untrue, and only serve to confuse Alaskans."

And I know team members want time to chew on this, but as has already happened this morning with KTUU finding me at the NEA speech and wanting responses to CP's letter - we can't blow any timely opportunity to set the record straight, asap, and lay out facts when we are asked. Better yet, to be pro-active and anticipate what the public is wanting answered. Obvious to me is the public's questions: "why is she refusing to talk to CP" (not true, but that's what they're hearing), and "is it true she just doesn't understand how to get this project built" (shoot- don't defend me on this, but our team of experts had better be defended or Alaskans will continue to believe the big, pretty, expensive ads that CP pays for to tell Alaskans we're, essentially, naive, stubborn and idiotic).

The response does need to be sent. It's fine, with minor corrections... I don't want us to over-think the response and miss opportunity to speak to Alaskans. I WILL be asked, continually, until we release a statement.

And I know team members want time to chew on this, but as has already happened this morning with KTUU finding me at the NEA speech and wanting responses to CP's letter - we can't blow any timely opportunity to set the record straight, asap, and lay out facts when we are asked. Better yet, to be pro-active and anticipate what the public is wanting answered. Obvious to me is the public's questions: "why is she refusing to talk to CP" (not true, but that's what they're hearing), and "is it true she just doesn't understand how to get this project built" (shoot- don't defend me on this, but our team of experts had better be defended or Alaskans will continue to believe the big, pretty, expensive ads that CP pays for to tell Alaskans we're, essentially, naive, stubborn and idiotic).

The response does need to be sent. It's fine, with minor corrections... I don't want us to over-think the response and miss opportunity to speak to Alaskans. I WILL be asked, continually, until we release a statement.

Wish I had my own media list so I could just hit "send" and get these things answered. Again- I love the team. But the interal over-analyzing drives me crazy when we miss good response opportunities. Further- the media knows where to find me, versus not finding Tom, Pat, Bruce, etc... they want answers soon bc then they simply move on to the next issue without our response when we miss it. I know you know this already! And I agree- Alaskans want to hear from us - what we're doing, where we're leading them.

Otherwise the WRONG mssg "jells" in the public which makes setting the record straight even harder. We must learn to react quickly - which can be done without seeming overreactive. Your suppoters like to see that your organization is engaged in these huge issues.

And I know team members want time to chew on this, but as has already happened this morning with KTUU finding me at the NEA speech and wanting responses to CP's letter - we can't blow any timely opportunity to set the record straight, asap, and lay out facts when we are asked. Better yet, to be pro-active and anticipate what the public is wanting answered. Obvious to me is the public's questions: "why is she refusing to talk to CP" (not true, but that's what they're hearing), and "is it true she just doesn't understand how to get this project built" (shoot- don't defend me on this, but our team of experts had better be defended or Alaskans will continue to believe the big, pretty, expensive ads that CP pays for to tell Alaskans we're, essentially, naive, stubborn and idiotic).

The response does need to be sent. It's fine, with minor corrections... I don't want us to over-think the response and miss opportunity to speak to Alaskans. I WILL be asked, continually, until we release a statement.

Just fyi. I'd warned Sharon that our team seems less enthused that I am about setting the record straight... but we must do so or we lose ground trying to react and catch up all the time. CP has big, pretty ads. We don't.

I agree that with ENI we have an opportunity to throw cold water on the "ACES makes for a bad investment climate" story-angle. Even the BP story was a weak attempted strike at us. As reported, BP is spending more than last year, but they say they "might" have spent even more without ACES. Juxtaposing that with a definite $1.4B commitment looks real good.

I'm not suggesting we reference BP in our presser, but the timing is fortunate.

I agree that with ENI we have an opportunity to throw cold water on the "ACES makes for a bad investment climate" story-angle. Even the BP story was a weak attempted strike at us. As reported, BP is spending more than last year, but they say they "might" have spent even more without ACES. Juxtaposing that with a definite $1.4B commitment looks real good.

I'm not suggesting we reference BP in our presser, but the timing is fortunate.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

No. 08-010

Eni works with Alaska on major development project

Company to develop 70 wells in Nikaitchuq oil field

January 26, 2008, Juneau, Alaska - Governor Sarah Palin today commended the major investment announced by Italian oil giant Eni. The company will invest $1.45 billion developing the Nikaitchuq oil field. Eni expects to drill 70 wells to recover 180 million barrels of oil.

"We are pleased that Eni has recognized the tremendous resource wealth and opportunity that Alaska has to offer," Governor Palin said. "Continued oil and gas exploration is significant to Alaska's future, creating real jobs for Alaskans. We look forward to a long and successful relationship with Eni."

On October 16, Eni submitted an application to Alaska Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Commissioner Tom Irwin requesting modification of royalty terms on 12 leases in the Nikaitchug Unit. After assessing the financial performance and economic benefits, on January 11 Commissioner Irwin approved a modification that allows Eni's royalty obligations to fall to 5 percent when prices are at $42.64 per barrel or lower.

Alaska law allows the DNR commissioner to make royalty modifications in order to meet investment thresholds.

Full details of the modification can be found at:

The gasline team should have announced our positive reaction to eni's announcement yesterday- we should do that today anyway.

Ktuu stopped me at speech to ask about CP's letter. Told 'em a bit of what I read into it- but the reporter didn't really know what to ask.

I'll read team's suggested response to release today.

Governor,

Tom, Pat, and I have just landed in Seattle enroute from DC to AK. We are concerned that a response message be consistent with other discussions. And, while we know that we are always willing to talk with the companies, CP is saying we will not talk, meaning we won't "negotiate". Furthermore CP is trying to confuse the public, and we don't want to exacerbate any confusion. Our preference is to think about how best to respond and get something out Monday. However, if you feel something must go out immediately, then we propose we talk sometime later this afternoon after we land and put it together at that time.

Thanks, Marty

On another speech related note--the ADN has an article about how BP has reduced its spending plan for Alaska, will ENI's announcement come soon? I've only heard it's in the works, not when they'll make it. (Obviously, I won't talk about it in the FAI Chamber speech unless it's announced.)

Gov, All,

Attached is the ENI announcement which was made yesterday. I think Frank Bailey was working w/DOG on a Gov's press announcement.

Thanks Sharon. Between you and me, sometimes I wonder why it doesn't bother the AGIA team that so many of our critics' points just go unanswered. They speak internally about how misinformed critics are - but don't seem to see the need for Alaskans to be assured we're on the right path and we know what we're doing. Be prepared for some to try to talk me out of responding, or clarifying, but I shall do so because Alaskans do need to know truth - and both sides of the issue. Thanks

I have copied and pasted into the email the Gas List that came directly off the Governor's Calendar. There are missing months as the calendaring system that was used previously to July 1, 2007 crashed and there is no back up to look at. Some calls may have not reached the calendar. If there is a way to go back to the Lt. FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Governor Stands by AGIA Process

January 26, 2008, Juneau, Alaska - Governor Sarah Palin today responded to claims made by ConocoPhillips regarding the State's rejection of the company's natural gas pipeline proposal, which was submitted outside the AGIA process.

"AGIA sets forth a vehicle that delivers North Slope gas to market with certification and construction benchmarks, expansion provisions, tariff terms, and other protections the state, and the nation, need. It is unfortunate that ConocoPhillips elected not to participate in this sensible competitive process as did other fine companies."

The Governor also clarified that the state has never refused to work with ConocoPhillips on a mutually beneficial plan to get the producers' gas into a pipeline to market.

Governor Palin on Wednesday spoke with ConocoPhillips president Jim Bowles about this issue.

"While the ConocoPhillips' alternative obviously falls outside of AGIA's terms, we have long sought a way for ConocoPhillips to work with the state and the AGIA licensee toward a mutual goal of getting ConocoPhillips' gas into a line to market. We have had several discussions along these lines, and will continue to do so. Statements to the contrary are simply untrue, and only serve to confuse Alaskans."

Dear Ms. Vehrs – thank you for forwarding your funding request letter. As you know, the governor's proposed budget is before the legislature and the public for consideration. I am certain that this item, along with many other requests for funding that were not included in the governor's initial budget, will be carefully considered. As to your request for a meeting with Governor Palin and Commissioner Irwin, I am copying Janice Mason, the governor's scheduler as she will know what may be possible during the time frame you have proposed.

Thank you and please let me know if you have other questions. Karen Rehfeld

Dear Director Rehfeld,

Please find attached our November 21, 2007 funding request to the Honorable Governor Sara Palin. We have been encouraged to resubmit our second funding request to you at this time.

As stated in our November letter, the 2.5 million dollar request was contingent upon receipt of federal funding. The amount of our federal earmark was originally $916,000. The adjusted amount is now $641,000 and is, at present, being challenged. We have every indication that we will receive this funding, and as such, we are reducing our state funding request accordingly, to 1.9 million dollars.

Chris Rainwater, AACD President, and other members of AACD would like to meet with Governor Palin and Commissioner Tom Irwin to discuss in detail the funding request and the proposals in our November 21st letter. This meeting is very important to us and we can be available to meet with Governor Palin and her staff in Anchorage, Wasilla, Juneau or any place she designates, from February 18th thru March 26th. Please contact our Executive Director, Eric Wade at 357-4563 Ext 110 in our Wasilla Office, or myself at bvehrs@gci.net, 907-892-8258/907-232-6887 at your earliest convenience to set up a date if at all possible. Thank you very much for your consideration.

Warmly, Betty Vehrs

aggressive defense from Counsel? The money to grease the aggressive defense wheel is all I can figure, void of due process and equal protection under Rule of Law. Interesting charade and cast of characters work as magicians to conjure up fictions of illusion to create equity out of thin air, with absolutely nothing in common with law under the independent Judicial Branch of government but created by the Executive Branch under "The Agency". Governor Palin has her work cut out for her to keep her visions concerning "uprooting corruption and making government transparent" with accountability restored in government.

In the opinion of Nathan Margold on Powers of Indian (Alaska's Native) Tribes approved October 25, 1934 (55 I.D. 14): "It is fact that State governments and administrative officials have frequently trespassed upon the realm of tribal autonomy, presuming to govern the Indian (Alaska's Native) tribes through State law or departmental regulation or arbitrary administrative fiat (This is no longer acceptable practice on Tribal Lands in Alaska.), but these trespasses have not impaired the vested legal powers of local self-government which have been recognized again and again when these trespasses have been challenged by an Indian (Alaska Native) tribe."

"In all Cases... and those in which a State shall be a Party, the supreme Court shall have original Jurisdiction." Art.III, Sec. 2 United States Constitution

Due Process provides that the "rights of Pro Per (Sui Juris) litigants are to be construed liberally and held to less stringent standards than formal pleadings drafted by lawyers; if court can reasonably read pleadings to state valid claim on which litigant could prevail, it should do so despite failure to cite proper legal authority, confusion of legal theories, poor syntax and sentence construction, or litigants unfamiliarity with pleading requirements." (Spencer v Doe, 1998; Green v Branson 1997; Boag v McDougall, 1998; Haines v Kerner, 1972)

"Sui Juris", "Pro Per", or "In Propria Personum" are the terms that are the status of the freeborn people in a courtroom, without disability, accessing your public record, bringing forth remedy according to lawful process. No other terms (c.g. "pro se or represented) mean the same thing.

In Propria Personum [pro per] Sui juris litigants must be treated with "special care because they occupy a position significantly different from that of litigants represented by counsel [bar attorney or incorporated services]." SOMERVILLE V. HALL, 2F.3D 1563, 1564 {11TH CIR.1993} AND JOHNSON V. PULLMAN, 845 F 2ND 911,914 {11TH CIR.1988}

Conspiracy against Rights, 18 U.S.C. § 241. Section 241 of Title 18 is the civil rights conspiracy statute. Section 241 makes it unlawful for two or more persons to agree together to injure, threaten, or intimidate a [Natural] person in any state, territory or district in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him/her by the Constitution or the laws of the united states of America, (or because of his/her having exercised the same). Unlike most conspiracy statutes, Section 241 does not require that one of the conspirators commit an overt act prior to the conspiracy becoming a crime.

Deprivation of Rights under Color of Law, 18 U.S.C. § 242. This provision makes it a crime for a person acting under color of any law to willfully deprive a [Natural] person of a right or privilege protected by the Constitution or laws of the United States of America.

For the purpose of Section 242, acts under "color of law" include acts not only done by federal, state, or local officials within the their lawful authority, but also acts done beyond the bounds of that official's lawful authority, if the acts are done while the official is purporting to or pretending to act in the performance of his/her official duties. Persons acting under color of law within the meaning of this statute include police officers, prisons guards and other law enforcement officials, as well as judges, care providers in public health facilities, and others who are acting as public officials. It is not necessary that the crime be motivated by animus toward the race, color, religion, sex, handicap, familial status or national origin of the victim.

Peonage, 18 U.S.C. § 1581. Section 1581 of Title 18 makes it unlawful to hold a [Natural] person in "debt servitude," or peonage, which is closely related to involuntary servitude. Section 1581 prohibits using force, the threat of force, or the threat of legal coercion to compel a [Natural] person to work against his/her will. In addition, the victim's involuntary servitude must be tied to the payment of a debt.

COLOR OF LAW.....n: a mere semblance of legal right; something done with the apparent authority of law but actually in contravention of law; "the plaintiff claimed that under color of law the officer had deprived him of his civil rights"

NO PRESUMPTION OF JURISDICTION

The law is clear and well-settled that a judge in a statutory proceeding, such as Bankruptcy, divorce, adoption, forcible detention, etc., is governed by the rules of limited jurisdiction and not by the rules of general jurisdiction. In all actions governed by the rules of limited jurisdiction, there is no presumption that the judge has jurisdiction. In re Cash, 383 Ill. 409, 429 (1943) ("Jurisdiction in special statutory proceedings is never presumed. It must affirmatively appear from the record. Nothing will be presumed in favor of jurisdiction in the face of facts appearing in the record showing it did not exist."); State Bank of Lake Zurich v. Thill, 113 Ill.2d 294, 497 N.E.2d 1156 (1986); Wabash Area Development, Inc. v. Ind. Com., 88 Ill.2d 392 (1981).

There is a misconception by some attorneys and judges that only a judge may declare an order void, but this is not the law: (a) there is no statute nor case law that supports this position, and (b) should there be any case law that allegedly supported this argument, that case would be directly contrary to the law established by the U.S. Supreme Court in Valley v. Northern Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 254 U.S. 348, 41 S.Ct. 116 (1920) and by the Illinois Supreme Court in People v. Miller. Supra. A party may have a court vacate a void order, but the void order is still void ab initio, whether vacated or not; a piece of paper does not determine whether an order is void, it just memorializes it.

This principle of law was stated by the U.S. Supreme Court as "Courts are constituted by authority and they cannot go beyond that power delegated to them. If they act beyond that authority, and certainly in contravention of it, their judgments and orders are regarded as nullities. They are not void-able, but simply VOID (ab initio), AND THIS EVEN PRIOR TO REVERSAL." [Emphasis added]. Valley v. Northern Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 254 U.S. 348, 41 S.Ct. 116 (1920). See also Old Wayne Mut. I. Assoc. v. McDonough, 204 U.S. 8, 27 S.Ct. 236 (1907); Williamson v. Berry, 8 How. 495, 540, 12 L.Ed. 1170, 1189 (1850); Rose v. Himely, 4 Cranch 241, 269, 2 L.Ed. 608, 617 (1808).

A void judgment which includes judgment entered by a court which lacks jurisdiction over the parties or the subject matter, or lacks inherent power to enter the particular judgment, or an order procured by fraud, can be attacked at any time, in any court, either directly or collaterally, provided that the party is properly before the court. See Long v. Shorebank Development Corp., 182 F.3d 548 (C.A. 7 Ill. 1999)

Whenever jurisdiction is denied or questioned by a party or the court, it is the duty of the party claiming that the court has jurisdiction to prove that the court does indeed have it. Bindell v. City of Harvey, 212 Ill.App.3d 1042, 571 N.E.2d 1017 (1st Dist. 1991) ("the burden of proving jurisdiction rests upon the party asserting it").

Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 1574:

Void judgment. One which has no legal force or effect, invalidity of which may be asserted by any person whose rights are affected at any time and at any place directly or collaterally. Reynolds v. Volunteer State Life Ins. Co., Tex.Civ.App. 80 S.W.2d 1087, 1092. One which from its inception is and forever continues to be absolutely null, without legal efficacy, ineffectual to bind parties or support a right, of no legal force and effect whatever, and incapable of confirmation, ratification, or enforcement in any manner or to any degree. Judgment is a "void judgment" if court that rendered judgment lacked jurisdiction of the subject matter, or of the parties, or acted in a manner inconsistent with due process. Klugh v. U.S., D.C.S.C., 610 F.Supp. 892, 901. See also Void-able judgment.

Prerequisites for Subject Matter Jurisdiction

The really big deal, the real issue in void judgments is SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION!!! Remember, subject matter can never be presumed, never be waived, and cannot be construed even by mutual consent of the parties. Subject matter jurisdiction is two parts: the statutory or common law authority for the court to hear the case and the appearance and testimony of a competent fact witness, in other words, sufficiency of pleadings. Subject matter jurisdictional failings:

No Petition in the record of the case, Brown v. VanKeuren, 340 Ill. 118, 122 (1930)

Defective Petition filed, Brown v. VanKeuren, 340 Ill. 118, 122 (1930)

Fraud committed in the procurement of jurisdiction, Fredman Brothers Furniture v. Dept. of Revenue, 109

Fraud upon the court, In re Village of Willowbrook, 37 Ill. App.3d 393 (1962)

In the ORIGINAL action, this court was without subject-matter jurisdiction at all times for multiple reasons. One of the many reasons arises out of the repeated decision(s) of the Supreme Court, that the record of the case must affirmatively contain a valid Petition for subject matter jurisdiction. Brown v. VanKeuren, 340 Ill. 118, 122 (1930):

"The petition required to put the court in motion and give it jurisdiction must be in conformity with the statute granting the right and must show all the facts necessary to authorize it to act, -i.e., it must contain all the statements which the statute says the petition shall state, - and if the petition fails to contain all of these essential elements the court is without jurisdiction. Where a court is exercising special statutory jurisdiction the record must show upon its face that the case is one where the courts have authority to act. Before a decree can have vitality the court must have jurisdiction not only of the person but of the subject matter."

A judge does not follow statutory procedure, Armstrong v. Obucino, 300 Ill. 140, 143 (1921).

Unlawful activity of a judge, Code of Judicial Conduct.

Violation of due process, Johnson v. Zerbst, 304 U.S. 458, 58 S.Ct. 1019 (1938); Pure Oil Co. v. City of Northlake, 10 Ill.2d 241, 245, 140 N.E.2d 289 (1956); Hallberg v. Goldblatt Bros., 363 Ill.25 (1936);

If the court exceeded its statutory authority, Rosenstiel v. Rosenstiel, 278 F.Supp. 794 (S.D.N.Y. 1967).

The Northwest Ordinance of 1787 (1 Stat.50) Article 3 assured that "The utmost good faith shall always be observed towards the Indians; their lands and property shall never be taken without their consent; and, in their property, rights and liberty, they shall never be invaded or disturbed, unless in just and lawful wars authorized by Congress; but laws founded in justice and humanity, shall from time to time be made for preventing wrongs being done to them, and for preserving peace and friendship with them."

Comment: The Northwest Ordinance of 1787 at Article 3 passed by the U.S. Congress assured Indian nations of their future sovereignty.

Jay Treaty Nov 19 1794

Art III "It is agreed that it shall at all times be free to the Indians dwelling on either side of the said boundary line, freely to pass and re-pass by land or inland navigation, into the respective territories and countries of the two parties, on the continent of America, and to navigate all the lakes, rivers and waters thereof, and freely to carry on trade and commerce with each other... nor shall the Indians passing or re-passing with their own proper goods and effects of whatever nature, pay for the same any impost or duty whatever."

Sperry Oil and Gas vs. Chisholm (264 U.S. 488), 68 L.Ed 03, 44 S.Ct 372, it was found "...nor can the State courts assume jurisdiction in a controversy involving Indians."

Public Law 83-280

(67 Stat.588, 18 U.S.C. ss 1162 and 28 U.S.C. ss 1360) Limitation of state authority to alienate tribal land rights: (Nothing in this Act authorizes the) ...alienation, encumbrance or taxation of any real or personal property, including water rights belonging to any Indian or Indian tribe, band, or community that is held in trust by the United States or is subject to a restriction against alienation imposed by the United States; or shall authorize regulation or the use of such property in a manner inconsistent with any federal treaty, agreement or statute or with any regulation made pursuant thereto...

Public Law 280Comment:

This act prohibits states from asserting jurisdiction within Tribal boundaries without Tribal consent. In Public Law 280 states where tribes have entered into law enforcement agreements with non-Natives, when a misdemeanor crime is committed by an Indian while on a reservation and the arrest is made by state or county law enforcement officers, a jurisdictional issue arises as whether the state or the tribe has the jurisdiction. When a county prosecutor or district attorney stipulates that the matter is transferred to the jurisdiction of the tribal court, it is a clear indication of respect for that court. [No valid agreement here in Togiak made between a Native or non-Native agency]

State of Washington vs. Guthrie, 1994

Tribes, which uphold and practice Tribal Law, Custom and Tradition often, have laws that are different than laws and customs of the United States of America. The Kuiu Kwáan of Alaska successfully argued Personal Jurisdiction in a criminal case in which Tlingit youth harmed a white man in Washington state. The Kuiu Tribal Court successfully argued that Petitioners were subject to the jurisdiction of the Tribe under Tlingit Law wherever they may reside.

Ada E. Deer, Assistant Secretary, Indian Affairs, U.S. Department of the Interior

June 23, 1994 memorandum: "Tribes, as sovereigns, are not subject to State jurisdiction, are not subordinate to State Governments, and should not be dealt with through Federal/State processes and arrangements designed to serve the interests of the general public..."

Memorandum for the Heads of Executive Departments and Agencies Government-to-Government Relationship with Tribal Governments

The United States has a unique legal and political relationship with Indian tribes and a special relationship with Alaska Native entities as provided in the Constitution of the United States, treaties, and Federal statutes. Presidents for decades have recognized this relationship. President Nixon announced a national policy of self-determination for Indian tribes in 1970. More recently, Executive Order 13175, entitled Consultation and Coordination with Indian Tribal Governments, was issued in 2000. I reiterated my Administration's adherence to a government-to-government relationship and support for tribal sovereignty and self-determination earlier this year in Executive Order 13336, entitled American Indian and Alaska Native Education.

6/9/2009

My Administration is committed to continuing to work with federally recognized tribal governments on a government-to-government basis and strongly supports and respects tribal sovereignty and self-determination for tribal governments in the United States. I take pride in acknowledging and reaffirming the existence and durability of our unique government-to-government relationship and these abiding principles.

This commitment begins at the White House, where my Director of Intergovernmental Affairs serves as my White House liaison with all Indian nations and works with federally recognized tribal governments on an intergovernmental basis. Moreover, it is critical that all departments and agencies adhere to these principles and work with tribal governments in a manner that cultivates mutual respect and fosters greater understanding to reinforce these principles.

Accordingly, the head of each executive department and agency (agency) shall continue to ensure to the greatest extent practicable and as permitted by United States law that the agency's working relationship with federally recognized tribal governments fully respects the rights of self-government and self-determination due tribal governments. Department or agency inquiries regarding this memorandum, specifically those related to regulatory, legislative, or budgetary issues, should be directed to the Office of Management and Budget.

This memorandum is intended only to improve the internal management of the executive branch and is not intended to, and does not, create any right, benefit, or trust responsibility, substantive or procedural, enforceable at law or in equity, by a party against the United States, its agencies, entities, or instrumentalities, its officers or employees, or any other person.

GEORGE W. BUSH

Will v. Michigan Dept. of State Police - Supreme Court ruling reported Nov. 1991
491 U.S. 58, 57 L.W 4677 (1989) State officials sued in their individual capacities are "persons" under 42 USC 1983 who may be held liable for damages for civil rights violations. State officials can be held personally liable for actions taken in the course of their official duties. Justice Sandra Day O'Connor wrote that Section 1983 was designed to redress violation of civil rights by persons acting under color of state law and thus it would stand the statute on its head to hold that a state official could not be held liable "precisely because of her authority" as a state official.

Comment: It is generally held that this ruling is a minimum ruling that may extend to other areas of injury.

So in conclusion Janella, there is more than enough ample documentation that I have the absolute Right, to challenge by question all your right to enter upon my Tribal Land, attach my Inalienable Rights as a Freeborn Natural Inhabitant into some nightmarish clutch, to presume I'm in debt to you people for any reason what so ever. What side are you really on? Please explain in full detail. Are you an officer of the court? If so, show me your valid oath of office. Is the public defender agency created and operated under the Executive Branch of government with nothing to do with the Judicial Branch on equal footing as two of three independent branches of government, the other being Legislative? Please explain. In fact is not the whole charade in the caption box at the top of this letter all under the same administrative Executive Branch, paid by the same in conflict with Rule of Law under Common Law? Please explain. Rexford says I have no respect for the "court or law", what "court or law" are in his mind? I believe he's referring to administrative courts and administrative codes that haven't got anything to do with me, the living, breathing Sovereign on my Land, exercising my Rights to Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happy-ness. To keep applying the charade will only validate any jurisdictional challenge, as you people purport to do via the recent charges which work to subvert My Jurisdictional challenge. Two weeks before Rexford Spoffords claims, I made a valid challenge, which in the same light as a writ of mandamus, needed to be addressed under the rules of law secured by the Supreme Law of the Land, the Constitution of the united States of America. Are you a party to said laws? Please explain in full. I firmly believe that in this court you are collectively defending under the guise of public that's a fraud and all orders made on my person are void ab initio! How can advice in protection of inalienable Rights be, "bad advice that may harm her."? I believe your advice to be misleading, and if I'm correct you should be ashamed of yourself until you rethink your moral values remembering we all have Birth Rights, under clever guise you only work to capitalize on. Only and when I injure a party will I ever be charged with a crime and then under Rule of Law, I'm presumed innocent until proven guilty by a court of law (not code) and only if convicted by a jury of my peers not tainted by third party instruction etc. Should you consider my position in error?

48 as magicians to conjure up fictions of illusion to create equity out of thin air, with absolutely nothing in common 49 with law under the independent Judicial Branch of government but created by the Executive Branch under "The making government transparent" with accountability restored in government.

1 In the opinion of Nathan Margold on Powers of Indian (Alaska's Native) Tribes approved
2 October 25, 1934 (55 I.D. 14): "It is fact that State governments and administrative officials have 3 frequently trespassed upon the realm of tribal autonomy, presuming to govern the Indian 4 (Alaska's Native) tribes through State law or departmental regulation or arbitrary administrative 5 fiat (This is no longer acceptable practice on Tribal Lands in Alaska.), but these trespasses have
6 not impaired the vested legal powers of local self-government which have been recognized
7 again and again when these trespasses have been challenged by an Indian (Alaska Native) tribe."

9 "In all Cases.... and those in which a State shall be a Party, the supreme Court shall have original Jurisdiction."
10 Art.III, Sec. 2 United States Constitution

12 Due Process provides that the "rights of Pro Per (Sui Juris) litigants are to be construed liberally and held to less
13 stringent standards than formal pleadings drafted by lawyers; if court can reasonably read pleadings to state valid
14 claim on which litigant could prevail, it should do so despite failure to cite proper legal authority, confusion of legal 15 theories, poor syntax and sentence construction, or litigants unfamiliarity with pleading requirements." (Spencer v
16 Doe, 1998; Green v Branson 1997; Boag v McDougall, 1998; Haines v Kerner, 1972)

18 "Sui Juris", "Pro Per", or "In Propria Personum" are the terms that are the status of the freeborn people in a
19 courtroom, without disability, accessing your public record, bringing forth remedy according to lawful process. No 20 other terms (e.g. "pro se or represented) mean the same thing.

22 In Propria Personum [pro per] Sui juris litigants must be treated with "special care because they occupy a position
23 significantly different from that of litigants represented by counsel [bar attorney or incorporated services]."

26
27 Conspiracy against Rights, 18 U.S.C. § 241. Section 241 of Title 18 is the civil rights conspiracy statute. Section
28 241 makes it unlawful for two or more persons to agree together to injure, threaten, or intimidate a [Natural] person
29 in any state, territory or district in the free exercise or enjoyment of any right or privilege secured to him/her by the 30 Constitution or the laws of the united states of America, (or because of his/her having exercised the same). Unlike 31 most conspiracy statutes, Section 241 does not require that one of the conspirators commit an overt act prior to the 32 conspiracy becoming a crime.

33
34 Deprivation of Rights under Color of Law, 18 U.S.C. § 242. This provision makes it a crime for a person acting
35 under color of any law to willfully deprive a [Natural] person of a right or privilege protected by the Constitution or 36 laws of the United States of America.

37
38 For the purpose of Section 242, acts under "color of law" include acts not only done by federal, state, or local 39 officials within their lawful authority, but also acts done beyond the bounds of that official's lawful authority, if 40 the acts are done while the official is purporting to or pretending to act in the performance of his/her official duties.
41 Persons acting under color of law within the meaning of this statute include police officers, prisons guards and other
42 law enforcement officials, as well as judges, care providers in public health facilities, and others who are acting as 43 public officials. It is not necessary that the crime be motivated by animus toward the race, color, religion, sex, 44 handicap, familial status or national origin of the victim.

45
46 Peonage, 18 U.S.C. § 1581. Section 1581 of Title 18 makes it unlawful to hold a [Natural] person in "debt
47 servitude," or peonage, which is closely related to involuntary servitude. Section 1581 prohibits using force, the 48 threat of force, or the threat of legal coercion to compel a [Natural] person to work against his/her will. In addition,
49 the victim's involuntary servitude must be tied to the payment of a debt.

COLOR OF LAW.....: a mere semblance of legal right; something done with the apparent authority of law but actually in contravention of law; "the plaintiff claimed that under color of law the officer had deprived him of his civil rights"

NO PRESUMPTION OF JURISDICTION

The law is clear and well-settled that a judge in a statutory proceeding, such as Bankruptcy, divorce, adoption, forcible detainment, etc., is governed by the rules of limited jurisdiction and not by the rules of general jurisdiction. In all actions governed by the rules of limited jurisdiction, there is no presumption that the judge has jurisdiction. In re Cash, 383 Ill. 409, 429 (1943) ("Jurisdiction in special statutory proceedings is never presumed. It must affirmatively appear from the record. Nothing will be presumed in favor of jurisdiction in the face of facts appearing in the record showing it did not exist."); State Bank of Lake Zurich v. Thill, 113 Ill.2d 294, 497 N.E.2d 1156 (1986); Wabash Area Development, Inc. v. Ind. Com., 88 Ill.2d 392 (1981).

There is a misconception by some attorneys and judges that only a judge may declare an order void, but this is not the law: (a) there is no statute nor case law that supports this position, and (b) should there be any case law that allegedly supported this argument, that case would be directly contrary to the law established by the U.S. Supreme Court in Valley v. Northern Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 254 U.S. 348, 41 S.Ct. 116 (1920) and by the Illinois Supreme Court in People v. Miller. Supra. A party may have a court vacate a void order, but the void order is still void ab initio, whether vacated or not; a piece of paper does not determine whether an order is void, it just memorializes it.

This principle of law was stated by the U.S. Supreme Court as "Courts are constituted by authority and they cannot go beyond that power delegated to them. If they act beyond that authority, and certainly in contravention of it, their judgments and orders are regarded as nullities. They are not void-able, but simply VOID (ab initio), AND THIS EVEN PRIOR TO REVERSAL." [Emphasis added]. Valley v. Northern Fire & Marine Ins. Co., 254 U.S. 348, 41 S.Ct. 116 (1920). See also Old Wayne Mut. I. Assoc. v. McDonough, 204 U.S. 8, 27 S.Ct. 236 (1907); Williamson v. Berry, 8 How. 495, 540, 12 L.Ed. 1170, 1189 (1850); Rose v. Himely, 4 Cranch 241, 269, 2 L.Ed. 606, 617 (1808).

A void judgment which includes judgment entered by a court which lacks jurisdiction over the parties or the subject matter, or lacks inherent power to enter the particular judgment, or an order procured by fraud, can be attacked at any time, in any court, either directly or collaterally, provided that the party is properly before the court. See Long v. Shorebank Development Corp., 182 F.3d 548 (C.A. 7 Ill. 1999)

Whenever jurisdiction is denied or questioned by a party or the court, it is the duty of the party claiming that the court has jurisdiction to prove that the court does indeed have it. Bindell v. City of Harvey, 212 Ill.App.3d 1042, 571 N.E.2d 1017 (1st Dist. 1991) ("the burden of proving jurisdiction rests upon the party asserting it.").

Black's Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 1574:

Void judgment. One which has no legal force or effect, invalidity of which may be asserted by any person whose rights are affected at any time and at any place directly or collaterally. Reynolds v. Volunteer State Life Ins. Co., Tex.Civ.App. 80 S.W.2d 1087, 1092. One which from its inception is and forever continues to be absolutely null, without legal efficacy, ineffectual to bind parties or support a right, of no legal force and effect whatever, and incapable of confirmation, ratification, or enforcement in any manner or to any degree. Judgment is a "void judgment" if court that rendered judgment lacked jurisdiction of the subject matter, or of the parties, or acted in a manner inconsistent with due process. Klugh v. U.S., D.C.S.C., 610 F.Supp. 892, 901. See also Void-able judgment.

Prerequisites for Subject Matter Jurisdiction

The really big deal, the real issue in void judgments is SUBJECT MATTER JURISDICTION!!! Remember, subject matter can never be presumed, never be waived, and cannot be construed even by mutual consent of the parties.

The purported Order(s) issued by this court are/is void ab initio since it was issued during a period lacking no subject matter and jurisdiction over the Sovereign parties. - 3

1 Subject matter jurisdiction is two parts: the statutory or common law authority for the court to hear the case and the
2 appearance and testimony of a competent fact witness, in other words, sufficiency of pleadings. Subject matter
3 jurisdictional failings:

5 No Petition in the record of the case, Brown v. VanKeuren, 340 Ill. 118, 122 (1930)

6 Defective Petition filed, Brown v. VanKeuren, 340 Ill. 118, 122 (1930)

7 Fraud committed in the procurement of jurisdiction, Fredman Brothers Furniture v. Dept. of Revenue, 109

8 Fraud upon the court, In re Village of Willowbrook, 37 Ill. App.3d 393 (1962)

9 In the ORIGINAL action, this court was without subject-matter jurisdiction at all times for multiple reasons. One of 10 the many reasons arises out of the repeated decision(s) of the Supreme Court, that the record of the case must 11 affirmatively contain a valid Petition for subject matter jurisdiction. Brown v. VanKeuren, 340 Ill. 118, 122 (1930):

12 "The petition required to put the court in motion and give it jurisdiction must be in conformity with the statute
13 granting the right and must show all the facts necessary to authorize it to act, -i.e., it must contain all the statements
14 which the statute says the petition shall state, - and if the petition fails to contain all of these essential elements the 15 court is without jurisdiction. Where a court is exercising special statutory jurisdiction the record must show upon its 16 face that the case is one where the courts have authority to act. Before a decree can have vitality the court must have 17 jurisdiction not only of the person but of the subject matter."

18 A judge does not follow statutory procedure, Armstrong v. Obucino, 300 Ill. 140, 143 (1921).

19 Unlawful activity of a judge, Code of Judicial Conduct.

20 Violation of due process, Johnson v. Zerbst, 304 U.S. 458, 58 S.Ct. 1019 (1938); Pure Oil Co. v. City of Northlake,
21 10 Ill.2d 241, 245, 140 N.E.2d 289 (1956); Hallberg v. Goldblatt Bros., 363 Ill.25 (1936);

22 If the court exceeded its statutory authority, Rosenstiel v. Rosenstiel, 278 P.Supp. 794 (S.D.N.Y. 1967).

24 The Northwest Ordinance of 1787 (1 Stat.50) Article 3 assured that "The utmost good faith shall always be 25 observed towards the Indians; their lands and property shall never be taken without their consent; and, in their
26 property, rights and liberty, they shall never be invaded or disturbed, unless in just and lawful wars authorized by 27 Congress; but laws founded in justice and humanity, shall from time to time be made for preventing wrongs being 28 done to them, and for preserving peace and friendship with them."

29
30 Comment: The Northwest Ordinance of 1787 at Article 3 passed by the U.S. Congress assured Indian nations of 31 their future sovereignty.

34 Art III "It is agreed that it shall at all times be free to the Indians dwelling on either side of the said boundary line,

36 on the continent of America, and to navigate all the lakes, rivers and waters thereof, and freely to carry on trade and 37 commerce with each other... nor shall the Indians passing or re-passing with their own proper goods and effects of 38 whatever nature, pay for the same any impost or duty whatever."

40 Sperry Oil and Gas vs. Chisholm (264 U.S. 488), 68 L.Ed 03, 44 S.Ct 372, it was found "...nor can the State

44 (67 Stat.588, 18 U.S.C. ss 1162 and 28 U.S.C. ss 1360) Limitation of state authority to alienate tribal land rights:
45 (Nothing in this Act authorizes the) ...alienation, encumbrance or taxation of any real or personal property, including
46 water rights belonging to any Indian or Indian tribe, band, or community that is held in trust by the United States or

Public Law 280Comment:

The purported Order(s) issued by this court are/is void ab initio since it was issued during a period lacking no
subject matter and jurisdiction over the Sovereign parties. - 4

1 This act prohibits states from asserting jurisdiction within Tribal boundaries without Tribal consent. In Public Law
2 280 states where tribes have entered into law enforcement agreements with non-Natives, when a misdemeanor crime
3 is committed by an Indian while on a reservation and the arrest is made by state or county law enforcement officers,
4 a jurisdictional issue arises as whether the state or the tribe has the jurisdiction. When a county prosecutor or district
5 attorney stipulates that the matter is transferred to the jurisdiction of the tribal court, it is a clear indication of respect
6 for that court. [No valid agreement here in Togiak made between a Native or non-Native agency]

8 State of Washington vs. Guthrie, 1994

9 Tribes, which uphold and practice Tribal Law, Custom and Tradition often, have laws that are different than laws
10 and customs of the United States of America. The Kuiu Kwáan of Alaska successfully argued Personal Jurisdiction
11 in a criminal case in which Tlingit youth harmed a white man in Washington state. The Kuiu Tribal Court
12 successfully argued that Petitioners were subject to the jurisdiction of the Tribe under Tlingit Law wherever they 13 may reside.

19
20 Memorandum for the Heads of Executive Departments and Agencies
21 Government-to-Government Relationship with Tribal Governments

23 The United States has a unique legal and political relationship with Indian tribes and a special relationship with 24 Alaska Native entities as provided in the Constitution of the United States, treaties, and Federal statutes. Presidents
25 for decades have recognized this relationship. President Nixon announced a national policy of self-determination for 26 Indian tribes in 1970. More recently, Executive Order 13175, entitled Consultation and Coordination with Indian
27 Tribal Governments, was issued in 2000. I reiterated my Administration's adherence to a government-to-government
28 relationship and support for tribal sovereignty and self-determination earlier this year in Executive Order 13336,
29 entitled American Indian and Alaska Native Education.

31 My Administration is committed to continuing to work with federally recognized tribal governments on a
32 government-to-government basis and strongly supports and respects tribal sovereignty and self-determination for 33 tribal governments in the United States. I take pride in acknowledging and reaffirming the existence and durability
34 of our unique government-to-government relationship and these abiding principles.

35
36 This commitment begins at the White House, where my Director of Intergovernmental Affairs serves as my White
37 House liaison with all Indian nations and works with federally recognized tribal governments on an 38 intergovernmental basis. Moreover, it is critical that all departments and agencies adhere to these principles and 39 work with tribal governments in a manner that cultivates mutual respect and fosters greater understanding to 40 reinforce these principles.

42 Accordingly, the head of each executive department and agency (agency) shall continue to ensure to the greatest
43 extent practicable and as permitted by United States law that the agency's working relationship with federally 44 recognized tribal governments fully respects the rights of self-government and self-determination due tribal 45 governments. Department or agency inquiries regarding this memorandum, specifically those related to regulatory,
46 legislative, or budgetary issues, should be directed to the Office of Management and Budget.

47
48 This memorandum is intended only to improve the internal management of the executive branch and is not intended
49 to, and does not, create any right, benefit, or trust responsibility, substantive or procedural, enforceable at law or in 50 equity, by a party against the United States, its agencies, entities, or instrumentalities, its officers or employees, or any other person.

The purported Order(s) issued by this court are/is void ab initio since it was issued during a period lacking no
subject matter and jurisdiction over the Sovereign parties. - 5

4 Will v. Michigan Dept. of State Police - Supreme Court ruling reported Nov. 1991
5 491 U.S. 58, 57 LW 4677 (1989) State officials sued in their individual capacities are "persons" under 42 USC 1983
6 who may be held liable for damages for civil rights violations. State officials can be held personally liable for 7 actions taken in the course of their official duties. Justice Sandra Day O'Connor wrote that Section 1983 was 8 designed to redress violation of civil rights by persons acting under color of state law and thus it would stand the 9 statute on its head to hold that a state official could not be held liable "precisely because of her authority" as a state
10 official.
11

12 Comment: It is generally held that this ruling is a minimum ruling that may extend to other areas of injury.
13

14 So in conclusion Janella, there is more than enough ample documentation that I have the absolute Right, to
15 challenge by question all your right to enter upon my Tribal Land, attach my Inalienable Rights as a Freeborn
16 Natural Inhabitant into some nightmarish clutch, to presume I'm in debt to you people for any reason what so ever.
17 What side are you really on? Please explain in full detail. Are you an officer of the court? If so, show me your valid
18 oath of office. Is the public defender agency created and operated under the Executive Branch of government with 19 nothing to do with the Judicial Branch on equal footing as two of three independent branches of government, the 20 other being Legislative? Please explain. In fact is not the whole charade in the caption box at the top of this letter all
21 under the same administrative Executive Branch, paid by the same in conflict with Rule of Law under Common
22 Law? Please explain. Rexford says I have no respect for the "court or law", what "court or law" are in his mind? I
23 believe he's referring to administrative courts and administrative codes that haven't got anything to do with me, the 24 living, breathing Sovereign on my Land, exercising my Rights to Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happy-ness. To 25 keep applying the charade will only validate any jurisdictional challenge, as you people purport to do via the recent 26 charges which work to subvert My Jurisdictional challenge. Two weeks before Rexford Spofford's claims, I made a
27 valid challenge, which in the same light as a writ of mandamus, needed to be addressed under the rules of law
28 secured by the Supreme Law of the Land, the Constitution of the United States of America. Are you a party to said
29 laws? Please explain in full. I firmly believe that in this court you are collectively defending under the guise of 30 public that's a fraud and all orders made on my person are void ab initio! How can advice in protection of 31 inalienable Rights be, "bad advice that may harm her."? I believe your advice to be misleading, and if I'm correct
32 you should be ashamed of yourself until you rethink your moral values remembering we all have Birth Rights, under 33 clever guise you only work to capitalize on. Only and when I injure a party will I ever be charged with a crime and 34 then under Rule of Law, I'm presumed innocent until proven guilty by a court of law (not code) and only if 35 convicted by a jury of my peers not tainted by third party instruction etc. Should you consider my position in error?

Sharon- who all is on our media press release recipient list? I'd like to see who received, for example, yesterday's presser we sent out right before 5pm re: Conoco's response.

There's something odd about a very vocal critic of our press releases and speeches - the person must receive the pressers before the general public sees them - because this critic posts them and spins our content into something negative everytime... and they're able to do this before the presser even gets printed or reported on in the mainstream media.

Kris...did we know who rfn was?

My understanding was that there were non-media types on that press release mailing list also...and that it was a compilation of a few media lists (sounded like a mess last year when I tried to find Juneau-only media...gave up and just built one myself).

It'd be interesting to see what Sharon turns up. It'd be very easy for a mole to get on that list...they probably just emailed and asked to get on it.

There's a blogger named rfn. He started off as a big supporter, now he's a critic who picks and chooses what issues to support us on. This morning he posted the press release we sent out 4:45pm yesterday on Conoco's response... and added that, essentially, I over-react and panic with responding via pressers -like it's a bad thing. How would this blogger have received the emailed presser unless he's a valid media person (and why would a legit media person bother to be a regular blogger?), or one of our folks sent it to him?

Strange thing is yesterday it was one of our folks who, as he does so often, warned me I'd again look like I was over-reacting... and he did not want any pressers going out... He cautions often that it doesn't do any good and even though he say he agrees with me that we should be communicating more often and clearer with the public, he is very, very hesitant to ever want pressers or statements going out in response to timely issues.

Trying to put two and two together here, trying to remember if this is the blogger who criticizes me but says very supportive things of a select few in the administration.

Also- I went through all me "sent" emails - esp looking at anything I've recently sent to Todd. There's no "Tony Piper" cc'd anywhere on any emails.

Todd- did you find the original email to check address of sender?

We have this candidate, [Privileged or Personal Material Redacted] for the public seat on the Marital and Family Therapy seat. Dan highly recommends him. He's [Privileged or Personal Material Redacted] so it looks like he'd be perfect for that seat.

Kris...did we know who rfn was?

My understanding was that there were non-media types on that press release mailing list also...and that it was a compilation of a few media lists (sounded like a mess last year when I tried to find Juneau-only media...gave up and just built one myself).

It'd be interesting to see what Sharon turns up. It'd be very easy for a mole to get on that list...they probably just emailed and asked to get on it.

There's a blogger named rfn. He started off as a big supporter, now he's a critic who picks and chooses what issues to support us on. This morning he posted the press release we sent out 4:45pm yesterday on Conoco's response... and added that, essentially, I over-react and panic with responding via pressers -like it's a bad thing. How would this blogger have received the emailed presser unless he's a valid media person (and why would a legit media person bother to be a regular blogger?), or one of our folks sent it to him?

Strange thing is yesterday it was one of our folks who, as he does so often, warned me I'd again look like I was over-reacting... and he did not want any pressers going out... He cautions often that it doesn't do any good and even though he say he agrees with me that we should be communicating more often and clearer with the public, he is very, very hesitant to ever want pressers or statements going out in response to timely issues.

Trying to put two and two together here, trying to remember if this is the blogger who criticizes me but says very supportive things of a select few in the administration.

We were bummed too when we had to cancel. We have mtgs in DC, though, at the end of February with the Natl Gov's Association, including a couple of meetings and events with the President, and mtgs with the Feds on AGIA - and there was no way to squeeze in two trips to DC in the same month. The 90-day session puts even more pressure on me to stay in Juneau as often as possible during these three months. Believe me, we tried to figure out a way to do both Outside trips in one month, but with the huge criticism I receive for even leaving Juneau to attend weekend mtgs and events in other parts of Alaska (and it's our fellow Republicans who scream the loudest if I'm not in Juneau), there was no way to fly to the East coast twice in such a short time span.

I apologize for that - and did not know you were going to be a part of that first DC event. Sorry.

Hi! When I was back in D.C. early this month the NRA staff told me you were going to give the opening speech at the CPAC Convention the first week in February. They were quite thrilled that you were coming and asked me to tell them all about you. Later one of the Vice Presidents asked me if I would come to the Convention and introduce you. I happily agreed to do so. I was told that it was possible that Bush might come also (although I wasn't asked to introduce him). So they arranged for a ticket and a hotel for me. Then late this week they advised that you had a conflict and had to cancel. Bummer. They were quite disappointed and I know I was. I, of course, canceled my trip because I had plenty to do at the office and now nothing to do there. I had the start of a good introduction ready for you. Hopefully we both get to perform those chores sometime in the future. My best, WAR

Sharon- who all is on our media press release receipient list? I'd like to see who received, for example, yesterday's presser we sent out right before 5pm re: Conoco's response.

There's something odd about a very vocal critic of our press releases and speeches - the person must receive the pressers before the general public sees them - because this critic posts them and spins our content into something negative everytime... and they're able to do this before the presser even gets printed or reported on in the mainstream media.
Thanks

The Native Issues cooking crew is busy preparing a delicious lunch style buffet that includes corn beef brisket w/cabbage, meat loaf supreme, mashed potatoes, steamed rice, green beans, buttered dinner roll, fresh berry pie, lima beans with ham, potato salad, macaroni salad, cesar's salad and fruit salad. This certainly beats being out in this cold miserable weather; you can see old friends and meet new friends! The cooking smells throughout the building here is making everyone hungry....

The Native Issues Forum begins approximately at 11:45 AM and concludes at 1:00 PM. Your presence is valuable and important. Thank you.
